Buy Stamp For Shangri-La

$1.00 Sought of Every Citizen

Theatres Ask All Citizens to Assist in Paying for a New Airplane Carrier

Every person in the United States is requested to buy $1 in War Stamps during July for the purpose of building a new airplane carrier, Shangri-La.

The theatres of America are sponsoring this campaign. W. J. Wooten states that he will have a salesman at the door of the Olympic Theatre during July. He urges all stores to be well stocked with War Stamps during the month in order that the campaign go over with great success.

Shangri-La has been officially adopted as the name of the new carrier. This name was assigned by President Roosevelt as the starting point of the air raid which was made by General Jimmie Doolittle and his flight of planes on Japan.

This is a special campaign, and Randall county will have a quota of $7,000 in War Stamps to be sold during the month.

July Call For Men Will Leave Sunday Afternoon

The local Board of Selective Service has a call for 19 men to leave Canyon Sunday afternoon. Due to the short interval from the June call only seven men could be processed to go for their physical examinations.

Allen Edson Lee, William Howard Perkins and James Bradford Tubb left this week for the navy, having been accepted for this branch of the service at Lubbock last Wednesday.

Charles Edward Donnell returned Friday from El Paso where he was inducted in the Marines. He was given a 14-day furlough and will report to San Diego.

R. T. McDaniels and Robert Benjamin Nutt, who were held over in Lubbock, were finally rejected Friday.

The following men will leave next Wednesday for Fort Sill: William Noel Evans, Leonard Franklin Cowden, Jr., William Allen Craghead, Marvin Wells Davenport, Jr., Jarvis Elery Dickinson, Clois William Childers, D. Raymond Oldham, Wayne Cay Talbert, Robert Emmett Garrett, Thomas Helge Larson.

County Seeks to Top Two Roads Caliche Base

The Commissioners Court advertises for bids on the topping of two pieces of country road.

It is proposed to top the road from Umbarger to Buffalo Lake, and two miles of road leading south from Amarillo.

Clarence Beckman states that due to heavy traffic the caliche road to Buffalo Lake is getting in bad shape and must be topped in order to save the base. He is seeking assistance on this road in both Canyon and Amarillo from people who make frequent trips to the Lake. Several methods of raising money have been suggested to him.

A large number of soldiers have been given special training at Buffalo Lake, and it may be possible to secure federal aid if this training center is continued.

The court will meet on July 19 for the purpose of opening bids on these roads and hope by that time to have plans worked out to carry on the work.

Ruth Price was operated on for appendicitis in an Amarillo Hospital June 26.

HAS CENTURY PLANT

In the yard of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson at 1400 2nd Avenue, a beautiful century plant is in bloom. When they moved to this place, it was a very small plant in the back yard, so Mrs. Robinson transplanted it in the front yard, and it has attained its enormous height of approximately 10 feet in only about six weeks.

No Holiday For 4th of July in Canyon

Business Houses Will Be Open Monday Instead of Taking the Usual Holiday

Practically all business houses in Canyon will be open for business July 5.

The annual holiday is falling on Sunday, and most of the local firms decided Monday that it was not wise to take off Monday as a holiday.

With harvest in full swing, business firms were of the opinion that it was unwise to ask farmers to adjust their buying to the needs of business men in taking a day off. When supplies are needed for harvest, it is hard for farmers to contemplate their buying over a two days period.

No holiday will be observed by West Texas State, and classes will go on Monday as usual.

The News has contacted a large per cent of the business firms of Canyon this week and finds that practically all of them agree that it is best to keep open Monday.

Water Situation Improved When Rain Received

Canyon's water situation was in hand by Monday when all of the storage capacity was filled.

The city's water plant was kept running at full speed, and during the nights water from the college wells was turned into the city's mains in order to keep up the supply.

In spite of the heavy drain on the water supply, the storage had been built up before the heavy rain.

Victory gardens, lawns and shrubbery have not suffered because of the water situation. Now that these have been flooded by the heavy rains of Tuesday, there is no immediate danger of another water shortage.

The City Commission is making a study of the water situation. It is evident that the city's wells are too close together to secure the maximum water supply. When there is difficulty with one of the wells, as was the case last week, the water supply runs low. With a normal amount of rain during the summer and fall, the water supply should be adequate if all citizens will refrain from wasting the water supply.

All Cars Must Display New $5 Federal Stamp

Only 200 federal automobile stamps have been sold at the Canyon postoffice. There are more than 1000 cars in this section of the county which must be provided with these stamps by the first of July.

The Collector of Internal Revenue has announced that early in July inspectors will make every county in Texas to check up on those who have not bought the new federal stamps. Owners of cars who are delinquent are subject to a fine.

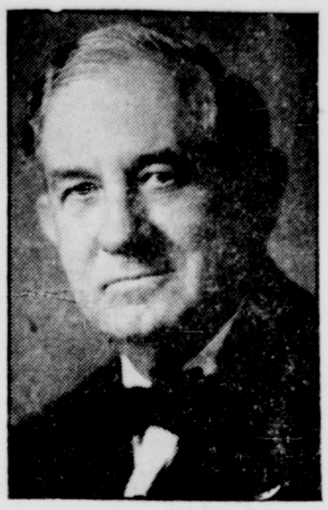
Connally Leads In Fight For His Labor Bill



SENATOR TOM CONNALLY of Texas moved Friday in the U. S. Senate to override the President's veto of his anti-strike bill. Connally has been active for two years in securing a bill in Congress to curb strikes. He has been a staunch supporter of the President's war policies, but has differed with the President on domestic problems. As chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Connally is in a key position to have much to do with the peace terms following the war.

Maurice Crain Missing in War

Gunner on Bomber Reported Missing After Bringing His First Enemy Plane Down

Maurice Crain, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Crain, is reported missing in action. His wife telephoned from New York Tuesday night that she had been advised from Washington that he was officially missing.

John Steinbeck, famous author, who is in England writing about American bombers, referred to Maurice in this release which was printed in the daily newspapers yesterday. Steinbeck has been a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Crain for years. Maurice assisted the author in preparing his novels for publication, and Mrs. Crain sold the motion picture rights. Mrs. Crain had written that Steinbeck was referring to Maurice in the release, and later telephoned the sad news that her husband was missing in action.

The following is from Steinbeck, regarding the bomber Mary Ruth, of which Maurice was a crew member:

On the underside of the Mary Ruth there is a ball turret where Henry Maurice Crain, of New York and formerly of Texas, lies on his back, sighting the guns between his knees.

From this position he protects the whole underside of the ship. It is a cramped position, but a very necessary one. Three days ago Crain shot down his first ship, a Focke-Wulf 109. "Something was wrong with him," Crain said. "He bobbed up at me and I could see his guns, but there was no flashes. Maybe his guns jammed or maybe he was out of ammunition. I poured it on him and followed him when he slipped away. I could see the tracers go into him and the fire start, but then the bombardier called that there was another one coming in at 11 o'clock, so I swung my turret forward again." The tail gunner reported Crain's kill. He saw the 109 hit the water. Nobody knows why Crain is in the ship. He is forty-one years old and the skipper isonly twenty-four. He tested physically as well as the rest and he wanted to be with this crew and they let him.

Harvest Held Up as Rain Falls Tuesday

Yield Over County Reported Better Than Anticipated; Wheat Not Hurt by Rain

Harvest started in full swing over the county during the week end, but was halted Tuesday morning by the rain. If there is no more rain wheat harvest will be underway again in a few days.

There has not been enough wheat marketed to determine the average yield for the county. However, most famers state that their wheat is yielding more than they had anticipated before starting their combines. Some who estimated 8 to 10 bushels report yields running up to 15 bushels.

The quality of the first wheat marketed was fine. Tests were running above 60.

The question of transportation is the big problem for harvest. During the first week many elevators found that they were running out of freight cars, and it is likely that this condition will prevail throughout harvest.

Marvin Jones Is Named Head of Food Group

JUDGE MARVIN JONES of Amarillo, former Congressman of this district, was named Monday by President Roosevelt to succeed Chester Davis as Food Administrator. Jones spent much of his time in Congress studying the farm and food problems. As chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, he has first hand knowledge of the food problems of the nation. Davis, a highly qualified food authority, resigned because of differences of opinion with the President and lack of cooperation of authority in handling the food problem.

Pictures Needed of Men in Armed Forces of Nation

Pictures of men in service, and letters from men who are in the various parts of the world are wanted for publication in the News.

The News has published pictures of many of the men from Randall county, but would like to have the pictures of all of them.

A small charge is made to secure the engraving, and this engraving is good for use in the future. Parents and friends of these men are glad to pay the small amount in order to see the pictures of the men in print.

Detachment Page Is Omitted For This Week

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McKee and Steve visited Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss McKee in Borger Sunday.

2 Inches Rain Falls in City

Best Rain Since October Falls Over Plains; Grass and Row Crop Improved

The best rain since last October fell in Canyon Tuesday. The moisture measured 2 inches.

While the rain varied in amounts over the county, the downpour was general, with all sections receiving some moisture. The rain in Canyon amounted to more than in most parts of the county. According to reports from over the Panhandle the two inch rain in Canyon was the largest recorded in Northwest Texas.

The total rainfall for 1943 is now boosted to 5.09 inches. This is considerably under normal.

While the rain held up harvest for several days, the rain did no material damage to the wheat. There was no wind with the rain. The test will be lowered somewhat on the wheat, but not enough to make a material difference.

Coming of rain at this time will be of great value to the stockmen. Grass was needing rain, and farmers were becoming alarmed over their feed crop.

The largest row crop acreage, and the large amount of fall gardens in the history of the county will result from this fine moisture.

Ration Book 3 Not Be Used Until This Fall

Persons who have not made application for War Book III will have time to do so before fall when the books become valid, Howard Gholson, district director of OPA, said yesterday. Those who did not have a permanent address between June 1 and 10 and service men were asked to wait until August to make their applications. Information concerning the manner in which these groups apply for the book will be announced at that time, the director said.

"If you applied for your book and have not yet received it, don't become anxious," Gholson advised. Mailing of the books are being done by volunteer workers from the Office of Civilian Defense in Dallas and the process will require time. Validation stamps are being used on the books at the Dallas center and no further procedure is required after the consumer receives his book through the mail, he said. Book II is a replacement of War Book I and II and instructions concerning the use of the stamps will be given when it becomes valid in the fall, the OPA official declared.

Stuart Condron Jr. Is Slugged Near Amarillo Depot

Stuart Condron, Jr. was slugged near the Denver depot in Amarillo on Wednesday of last week as he was on his way to catch a train to Dallas.

He went to the depot and finding that the train was several hours late, returned to his room. Going to the depot about 3 o'clock in the morning he was attacked and hit on the back of the head. It is presumed that robbery was the intention, but evidently the man or men attempting the robbery were frightened away as Stuart's money wasn't taken. He managed to run to the depot where he collapsed outside the door.

He was taken to the hospital for treatment but after two days there and two more at the home of his parents in Canyon he returned to his work at KFDA in Amarillo.

Pressure Cookers For Canning

Citizens May Get Help With Canning Work

If you have vegetables to can, but no pressure cooker, don't take a chance on losing them by using other methods of canning. Instead, bring your vegetables to the home economics department at the college and use the pressure cookers and other equipment provided there.

This cooperative service of the home economics departments of the W. T. S. C. and Canyon High Schools and the Home Demonstration Agent will be offered on Monday and Wednesday afternoons throughout the month of July. Each of these agencies is contributing a pressure cooker. Miss Wilroy, Miss Barrett or Miss Clark or some other member of the Randall County Nutrition Committee will be present to help those who wish assistance in use of equipment.

Vegetables may be washed and made ready for canning at home provided the preparation is done immediately before bringing the food to the department. If vegetables are prepared too long ahead of time, vitamins will be lost. You need bring only jars, lids, rubbers, and food to be canned; all other equipment will be furnished.

Phone 85 to make reservations for use of the pressure cooker and laboratory.

Applications For "A" Books Ready All Car Owners

Applications for renewal of Gasoline A Books are being received by the Local War Rationing Board.

Blanks were delayed a few days, but are now available at all service stations or at the local board.

Car owners are requested to make out their own applications and to fill in all of the blanks which the owner of the car must furnish.

It is requested that the applications be mailed to the local board in order so there will be no confusion in the office in mailing back the renewals. Present A books do not expire until July 22. However, car owners are urged to make applications for the new coupons at once in order that they be assured of new coupons by that time. If too many car owners wait until the last day to make application, many of them will not be able to get their new coupons in time to buy gasoline on July 22.

The Revolt in Congress

Our enemies are making a lot over the revolt in Congress against the domestic policies of President Roosevelt. Before this they played up the lack of unity in the nation as shown by the increasing number of labor strikes.

As a matter of fact, the revolt in Congress has nothing to do with the war policy of the President other than the fact that Congress disagrees with the President and insists upon a program of strengthening domestic situations in order that the war may be won more quickly.

The President received two severe jolts at the hands of Congress Friday and Saturday. His veto of the anti-strike bill was overwhelmingly overridden and his plan for spending billions of dollars on subsidies to hold down the cost of living was swamped by both branches of Congress.

It seems that much of this disagreement dates back to the years when the President expected Congress to be a rubber stamp for any idea which he presented, rather than acting as an independent deliberate body. That worked during two terms of his administration, but Congress revolted when it came to continuing as a rubber stamp during the third term. Now that the President is looking toward a fourth term, the revolt is increasing in Congress as well as among the people.

Contributing factors throughout the years have been many. The President has always refused to take Congress into his confidence. He adopted the dictator policy and relied upon his popularity with the people. He has always snubbed the press.

His administration has been wasteful, millions of dollars being thrown to the wind upon useless projects created for the purpose of creating useless jobs for people.

The wage scale of federal employees has been ridiculous. When the war started, theorists in government have thrown away billions of dollars in wages to people who have not earned these high wages. When a high school graduate can make more money in a war job he knows nothing about than a business man can make who has devoted his life to a business, there is something radically wrong. Kids out of high school make more than college professors.

The President did a good job in handling the depression, but the social reforms of a depression have no place in a war program. We cannot win a war with a 40-hour week.

When the President staged his fight on the Supreme Court because it ruled against some of his pet ideas, the principal excuse was that men on the court were too old. Yet his cabinet is older than the Supreme Court members, and he has refused to do anything about this. He has held on to unpopular Madame Perkins in spite of growing public disapproval.

The activities of Mrs. Roosevelt have not set well with many Americans. Her ideas of race equality and sponsoring the radical element in youth movements may have had something to do with the recent social unrest.

Establishing multiple and conflicting bureaus in Washington and hiring of thousands of needless workers at fancy prices has done much to confuse the people regarding the war, and certainly has added a burden to the administration.

The constant fight that the President has made on business, and his determination to break certain lines of business has not added to his prestige as a well balanced leader.

There has never been so friendly an administration to labor as Roosevelt has shown. Labor came into its own, but some of the labor leaders have taken advantage of the situation. Passage of the Connally anti-strike bill is the direct contribution of John L. Lewis to the labor situation. While William Green and Phillip Murray had pledged no strike in AFL and CIO during the war, they were powerless to stop outlaw strikes in their own organizations. But it was Lewis who fostered and ordered strikes among the miners. Lewis places the welfare of his union above the welfare of the nation.

The veto by the President of the anti-strike bill naturally brought down on his head the wrath of Congress as well as the people of the nation. There is a suspicion that the President is looking toward a fourth term. His criticism of the provision that labor unions cannot contribute to political campaigns brings to mind the big contributions, a mere half million from Lewis at one time, made to the Roosevelt campaign. The President may now tell the labor leaders that he did all that he could to protect them; if the law does not work as contemplated, he can lay all the blame on Congress. At the same time, the people are not apt to forget that the President was unwilling to lay down the law to labor leaders at a time when the safety of the nation was at stake.

The second rebuke to the President came when Congress refused to allow the payment of subsidies. The President said that no one had a better plan, and he was willing to appropriate more millions of dollars from an already depleted treasury to make these payments. In this instance the President must assume the entire responsibility of increased prices. He clamped a ceiling on manufactured and retail prices, but refused to put the ceiling on labor and raw materials. No wonder business firms are going broke, stocks of goods are depleted, and confusion exists.

The wild-eyed theorists in Washington are causing the worst meat shortage in the history of the nation in spite off the fact there never has been such a great surplus of live animals. Feeders cannot finish the animals, and packers cannot afford to slaughter them because of regulations. The pet theories of the so-called economists in Washington have been knocked into a cocked hat and the administration must suffer the consequences.

This bitter war must be won, but at the same time we must maintain and cherish the institutions that have enabled us to reach the pinnacle of world influences.

Phoney economics will not win the war or create possibilities and jobs for our victorious returning soldiers. Sound competitive business must be called upon to provide jobs and security for the coming generations. Men who have never run a business are fools if they think they can direct successful business ventures from a bureau in Washington. Regulations? Certainly government must continue to regulate business, but by LAW. This nation cannot survive when its institutions are regulated subject to edicts, decrees and personal whims of those in Washington.

These are some of the many reasons that the country is rebelling against the domestic policies of Roosevelt, the super politician, who is seeking a fourth term.

Shackles Are Waiting

If the war finally ends with a national debt of around 350 billion dollars, the Federal budget of the future must approximate 20 to 25 billion dollars annually. At that rate, Federal authorities will control, by taxation, something like 25 per cent of the national income. The people will work a quarter of the time for the government.

The bulk of new war manufacturing plants which are now producing war goods are for all practical purposes owned by the government. Although operated by private citizens, the government furnished most of the money for their construction. In addition, there is political pressure for permanent government control of the natural resources industries. The future presents a grim picture indeed so far as individual liberty is concerned, if a majority of people in this nation do not wake up to the terrifying potentialities of expanding government power.

The country is committed to a huge public debt which will absorb a large share of the earnings of every worker. The war made that inevitable. We have lost what might be called our financial liberty. But we still have political liberty.

Whether that, too, is lost is dependent upon the people themselves. If they permit private industries to be absorbed by government, and the stage is now set for that, the foundation of political liberty will be wiped out. Without continued private ownership and management of the coal and metal mines, the oil, power and transportation industries, together with manufacturing enterprises, under a free competitive system, there can be no real independence, economic or political for the ordinary citizen.

It is to the interest of every individual to do his part to see that industry not only remains free of government domination, but that government pursues tax and regulatory policies which encourage private employment.

The exigencies of war have shackled our pocketbooks. But government bureaucracy must not be allowed to shackle our freedom and destroy the republic.

Stalin renews his demand for a second front. No wonder. Russia has lost more men holding the Nazi in check than all the United Nations combined. Of course the Reds are not fighting for the benefit of her Allies, but to save Russia. Nevertheless, Russia may not be able to continue to hold the Germans without material aid. We are getting more and more lend-lease goods to Russia, but the knockout blow will not come until there is actual invasion of Hitler's fortress. When that time comes we must steel ourselves to the accompanying heavy losses, but the war will not be won without such an invasion.

The President asked Congress to make a penitentiary out of the army by putting striking miners in uniform and ordering them back to work. There are thousands of criminals in the penitentiaries of the nation who would like to get out and poin the armed services. It is an honor to serve in the American army. Do you want YOUR boy thrown in with a bunch of released criminals? Neither does anyone else, and certainly the armed forces haven't time to run a reform school.

Washington News

By Congressman Eugene Worley

There was deep-seated resentment in both House and Senate when the President vetoed the anti-strike bill. There are many members of this body who served in the last war, others who have sons and relatives in this war and several members who have seen active duty in the present conflict. All of them know how deeply the boys on the battle front resent strikes which will curtail the supply of weapons they must have to protect their own lives and to vanquish the enemy. These members profoundly believe that the anti-strike bill will meet the labor crisis. Congress voted to override the President's veto by the necessary two-thirds vote. In the Senate the vote was 56 to 25; in the House, 244 to 108.

In brief, the bill provides a prohibition against any strikes in any government held plant. Anyone instigating or aiding such a strike can be fined $5,000 or receive a one-year jail sentence. A 30-day notice of a strike in a private war plant and a secret ballot of all employees is made mandatory. If the workers then strike the government takes over the plant but is directed to return it to private operation as soon as the trouble is over.

Congress as a whole, and the nation as well, appreciate the excellent work which the very great majority of labor, organized and unorganized, is doing in the war. Provisions of the bill were not aimed at these loyal and conscientious workers but at the few who were causing all of the trouble.

The largest appropriations bill ever to come before Congress was passed this week, giving $71,000,000,000 to the War Department for the 1944 budget. The vote was unanimous.

In hearings conducted by the subcommittee of the appropriations group, it was brought out that the cost of equipping one ground force infantry soldier, both as to his individual and organization equipment (complete with rifle and other weapons) is $299.47.

Money for war bonds is being used to make the American soldier the best fed, best equipped and best trained soldier in the world. Your money is also being used to maintain the finest and best equipped medical department of any army in the world. This means that our boys have a much better chance of recovery, if wounded, than any soldier has ever had.

The mothers and fathers of service men can rest assured that every effort is being made to provide their boy with the best possible medical care. First aid kits contain sulfadizaine tablets to be taken internally and a sulfa powder for his wounds to prevent infection. Records show that more than 97 per cent of our wounded men have recovered.

It is interesting to note that as weapons become deadlier armies fight farther apart. Major General James Magee, surgeon general, states that in the Civil War soldiers generally fought 100 yards apart, now they are fighting 15 miles apart—hand to hand combat, of course, is another matter, says General Magee.

The new pay-as-you-go tax plan will go into effect July 1. I am sending an official analysis to your newspaper editor which should be of help in answering many questions about the provisions of this bill.

It had to happen sometime. A lady patron came into the theater and amid some commotion took her seat a few minutes before the curtain fell. She insisted that she always read her books that way.—Christian Science Monitor.

Miss Grace Clark Is Remembered On Her Birthday

By Miss M. Moss Richardson

The heavy shower of June 20 that deluged the House of Clark began on the eighteenth, increased on the nineteenth, culminated on the twentieth, and continued later thru the week.

The friends of Miss Grace Clark secretly circulated the report that the twentieth was her birthday. Without any preconceived arrangement, birthday cards, letters, and more than fifty gifts found their way to the honoreee. The circle of people represented all groups and ages. High school boys and girls, teachers, neighbors, friends, relatives, all conspired to render the birthday a joyous occasion that has lifted her all the days since.

WHAT TO WRITE SOLDIERS

"The soldier wants the intimate details of life back home," says Chaplain (Major) Alvie L. McKnight of Cleveland, Miss., who has just returned to the U. S. after five months of duty on Guadalcanal. "That the girl two doors down has taken a war plant job, or that the couple across the street have had a baby may make your letter read like a personal column in a small-town weekly newspaper, but that's what he wants. By all means, don't tell the soldier about your troubles. He has enough of his own. Domestic troubles affect the morale of the soldier at the front more than anything else. Something to live for and go back to is what keeps a soldier going. It is what gives a man fight. Home life is everything to the man at the front."

FARMERS TO GET TOOLS

More than 50 hard-to-get items needed on farms will be provided by a WPB order to manufacturers and wholesalers to set aside specific quantities. This action puts into effect an emergency program worked out under WPB's Office of Civilian Requirements to make available at retail outlets serving farmers, supplies needed to increase food production. The list includes such items as auger bits, batteries, chains, chisels, drills, grain scoops, grease guns, harness, hoes, fractional horsepower motors, pails and tubs, pipe fittings, pliers, screw drivers, shovels, tires, pumps, valves and wrenches.

AVERAGE INCOME UP, BUT—

In July, 1940, the average American had an income of about $47.92. Military expenditures in that month amounted to approximately $1.50 per person. In April of this year, income per capita was 1.8 times what it was in the middle of 1940—$85.03, but if the average American had been asked to pay April's war expenses on the spot, they would have taken $53.52 of his new $85.03 income.

$1.00 APIECE FOR POOR TIRES

One dollar apiece is the maximum price that OPA has set for low-quality used passenger car tires which now are permitted for the first time. Maximum additions to this price are provided when tires are given emergency repairs before being sold.

JAP PRISONERS DIE

More than 300 U. S. war casualties are the result of unhealthful conditions in Japanese prison camps, according to messages received thru the International Red Cross from Japan. Disease is stated in each case as the cause of death.

AVOID FUEL SHORTAGES

Fuel shortages can be avoided, says a recent OWI report, only if—(1) large consumers of fuel oil, those using more than 10,000 gallons a year, convert their oil burners to coal burners now; (2) both home and industrial users of bituminous coal order supplies now; (3) householders place orders for insulation, weather stripping, storm windows, etc., immediately.

SOLDIERS' DEPENDENTS GET CHECKS

Family allowances and voluntary allotments-of-pay are now in force for about four and a half million soldiers who have more than seven and one-half million dependents, the War Department announces. More than 20 million family allowance and allotment-of-pay checks have been mailed to the wives, children and other dependents, relatives of Army men in one year.

100,000 DEHYDRATORS

A plan for making 100,000 domestic food dehydrators before September 1 has been approved by WPB. These dehydrators are urgently needed, says the War Food Administration, in time to preserve farm and victory garden fruits and vegetables. A home food dehydrator removes moisture from raw food, thereby preserving its flavor and food value for later use.

ALFALFA HAY UNDER CONTROL

Alfalfa hay was brought under price control of OPA recently in Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, and New Mexico and in El Paso and Hudspeth counties in Texas at the levels established last February for California, Oregon, and Washington. This is intended to reduce the price to the farmer in the area now brought under control for the first time. With few exceptions the maximum price is $20 a ton, loose on the farm, ready to load.

BABY CARRIAGE QUOTA DECREASED

Baby carriages to be made in the current quarter have been decreased to 289,369 compared to the original schedule of 317,777. However, strollers, walkers, and sulkies have been increased from 163,500 to 233,500. The demand for baby carriages in 1943 is expected to be 900,000.

PROSECUTE GAS RATION VIOLATORS

Criminal prosecutions for violation of gasoline rationing regulations instituted by OPA through April 30, 1943, totaled 509. Ninety-three cases involved operations of gasoline stations. The remaining 416 were actions against individuals ranging from private automobile owners and filling station attendants to criminal "rings" engaged in systematic theft and sale of stolen gasoline ration books and coupons.

LOANS INSURED BY FHA

More than $6,800,000,000 in loans by private lending institutions financing the construction, purchase, or repair of approximately 5,400,000 homes, have been insured by the Federal Housing Administration since its establishment on June 27, 1934, it was announced as the FHA marked its ninth anniversary.

LIVING COSTS RISE

A rise of 1.7 per cent in food prices increased the total cost of living for non-rural workers by 0.8 per cent in the month ended May 15. Nevertheless, the cost of items making up nearly 60 per cent of the family budget remained practically unchanged. This increase of 0.8 per cent compared with a rise of 1.5 per cent in the month ending March 15 and 1.1 per cent in the month ending April 15.

Lt. Col. McDonald Writes of Life In North Africa

Lt. Col. T. H. McDonald, of the class of '29, has recently written President Hill of his experiences in North Africa. He writes: "This leaves me enjoying the cool nights more than the hot days. It is early morning, and I have on a field jacket, while within five hours, any clothing will seem too much.

So far I have enjoyed my stay in North Africa. The type of training my unit is doing is interesting and challenging in that it requires a high degree of coordination among members of the team.

. . . I have decided that we do more teaching in the Army than we did in civilian life, in fact, that is all I have done since being in the Army.

Thanks for the training that your group gave me while I was there.

. . . I always enjoy the school paper. It doesn't reach me on time, but it is good when it arrives."

Mr. McDonald was president of the class of '29, and until he went into the Army, he was a member of the Amarillo Senior High School staff and director of the R. O. T. C. unit there. Mrs. McDonald, a member of the class of '28, spends a part of her time in Amarillo and a part down state.

"My papa got an invitation to be judge at the spring flower show."

"What does your papa know about flowers?"

"That's just the point. A judge is supposed to be neutral, and everyone says my papa doesn't smell so very good."

Friendship, like love, is but a name,
Unless to one you stint the flame—
The child whom many fathers share
Hath seldom known a father's care.
'Tis thus in friendship; who depend
On many, rarely find a friend.
—John Gay.

There is a land of pure delight
Where saints immortal reign;
Infinite day excludes the night,
And pleasures banish pain.

WARWICK'S

Drive For More Copper Starts in All Theatres

Old copper, bronze and brass are needed in the war program! Every citizen is urged to make a search of his home and bring all such metals to the Olympic Theatre where a box will be placed to receive the metal.

W. J. Wooten states that vital war materials are running low, and citizens must assist by turning in such items that they have.

The following is a list of metal articles which contain the kind of metal that is needed: ash trays; automobile parts (headlight reflectors, radiators, hub caps, copper wire); bearings; bathroom fixtures; brass beadsteads; brass buttons; brass flower pots; candle sticks; copper coils; copper boilers; copper and bronze window screens; cuspidors;

Wives of Two Men In Service Talk at Rotary Club

Mrs. Erma Westmoreland Fox and Mrs. Gloria Standley Wiggins talked at the Rotary Club Tuesday, giving the viewpoint of the wife whose husband is in service. The program was in charge of F. E. Savage.

Wayne Fox enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1942. After six months training he was sent to the Pacific area. His work is to build air fields and work on planes. Mrs. Fox read excerpts from his letters from New Caledonia, where he met his brother-in-law. He was surprised to find redheaded negroes there. Mr. Fox also told of his experiences at Guadalcanal, the air raids, and the Jap prisoners which he had seen.

According to Mrs. Fox the chief concern of her husband is that things will not be changed too much when he returns home. "I suspect that he refers to the hearts of men," stated the speaker.

Mrs. Wiggins is the wife of Austin Wiggins, former star athlete of West Texas State. "The war has not affected us so much as it has the boys," stated Mrs. Wiggins. Austin joined the Air Corps in September 1941, and left the United States in October 1942. He is a dive bomber and went through Guadalcanal. She read from his letters which described being shot down, landing in the ocean and witnessing an air fight of our planes with the Japs overhead. He has been recommended for the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Mrs. Wiggins closed with the statement: "How small is my part in the war as compared with his part."

C. W. Foote was introduced as a new member of the club.

Visitors were: Winston Savage of Pampa; E. Kancher, F. R. Barnes, Horace Griggs, Dr. J. Francis Brown, E. F. Richmond, all of Amarillo; Stony Wall of Lubbock.

Road to Burma

MAKING HAVOC AMONG THE JAPANESE in Burma from February through May of this year, have been columns of British, Indian and Burmese troops led by a British brigadier. They blew up more than 100 miles of Jap railroads and bridges, killing numerous Jap soldiers. But perhaps more important was their work in building better roads into Burma and in making friends among the native people. These will be useful when it becomes possible to launch the offensive that will drive out the Japanese. This new picture of supplies carried by mules for the Allied troops in Burma shows the difficult jungle conditions in which these daring fighters operated.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

by BOYCE HOUSE

Some men are like the fly that sat on the hub of the revolving chariot wheel and said, "What a great dust I raise."

Last summer, I met:

Orville Stites of Donna, the "strawberry king"—he had 100 acres in the berries;

Fireman Dick Sullivan of San Angelo, whittling a little wooden boot in a leisure moment—Chief Biggs' department has sent these artistic souvenirs to all parts of the United States;

District Attorney Fred Erisman of Longview, who gives a barbecue each year to the high school graduating class—the Longview Lens humorously commenting, "About 10 years more and Fred will be a cinch for any office he runs for; there will be enough high school graduates who have eaten his barbecue to put him over";

And District Clerk E. W. Pickett, a former baseball player, who made the location for an oil well in the most unusual way in history—he threw a baseball and the spot where the ball hit the ground was where they put the derrick. Hit oil, too! It was no doubt the smallest tract that a wildcat was ever drilled on. Usually, a wildcatter gets up a block of several thousand acres—a few hundred, anyway. This one was drilled on a five-acre lease!

One of my favorite vaudeville performers, years and years ago when there was vaudeville, was Walter Kelley, known as the "old Virginia Judge." He was seated on the bench, gavel in hand, and was so gifted as a mimic that he could play all the characters. One case was that of a negro who had acquired a college education up North and when the judge said, "I fine you $10," the defendant said, "Yes, sir. I've got it right here in my pocket." The judge continued, "—and 30 days in jail." Then peering over his glasses, he asked, "Have you got that in your pocket, too?"

Can you recall when "electrics" were in use? They were rivals to the automobile but were propelled by electricity. (I suppose by means of a battery), instead of gasoline. There were no fumes and they glided silently by. They were glassed in (in a day when the autos were open affairs); they steered with a stick and, instead of a horn, were equipped with a pleasant-sounding bell. The driver usually was a pretty lady and there was a little vase with a rose. Ah, those were the days of romance!

Weldon Bright Is Army Censor In British Isles

From Lt. L. W. (Weldon) Bright, '42, who is now stationed somewhere in England, has come the following interesting letter to Miss M. Moss Richardson who is sharing it with other friends of Weldon.

"Dear Friend and Teacher:

The lights are dim here in England, and the marks of sacrifice show all too plainly everywhere; but, under four years of 'blood, sweat, and tears,' the people exhibit magnificent courage and spirit. It makes us feel a slight pang of shame to remember people at home bemoaning such little inconveniences as the amount of butter served in eating places.

Gradually we're becoming accustomed to 'pounds, shillings, and pence' in place of our own money. I still can't keep up with them when they count change from a pound note, half-crown, or the like, and I usually 'wind up' in the corner making my own tedious check up!

I have been close to some places such as Sherwood Forrest and Loch Lomond (Aye, I've been in Sco'land, too) but so far have had little opportunity to do much visiting. At the present, I'm censoring mail and drilling prisoners (at night, mind you) and tho' I am wearing the markings of a 2nd Lt. Field Artillery, I have not seen a field artillery piece in three months.

Please forgive the excess use of the pronoun 'I,' but I wanted you to know some of my experiences. Affectionately, Weldon."

Of all the things I have ever seen, only the sea is like a human being; the sky is not, nor the earth. But the sea is always moving; always something deep in itself is stirring it. It never rests; it is always wanting, wanting, wanting. It hurries on; and then it creeps back slowly without having reached, moaning. It is always asking a question, and it never gets the answer.—Olive Shreiner.

V-NEWS

From Randall County Home Economists.

Home canning is not a difficult job if the homemaker has good equipment and knows how to use it. Both new and experienced canners can profit from getting their equipment in good condition at the beginning of the canning season.

First, you need to check the guage on your pressure cooker, for if it does not register accurately there is danger that the canned food may spoil.

The next step is to get the petcock and safety valve clean. They can be unscrewed and washed in hot, soapy water. If these parts are corroded or gummed with food particles, they can be soaked in kerosene and vinegar.

The cooker can easily be brightened and made rid of odors by using juice of one lemon to two quarts of water or two tablespoons of vinegar, or a double handful of Irish potato peelings. Heat this in the cooker for five minutes at five pounds pressure.

The pressure cooker offers the safest known method of canning the non-acid vegetables and meats because it destroys bacteria in these foods, including the most dangerous—the bacillus botulinus. If these bacteria are not destroyed in the spore stage, they may grow and later produce a toxine or poison in the food. You cannot smell, taste, or see this poison, yet one small bite could cause death or severe illness.

Average yields of some of the common vegetables and fruits you will be canning are:

Greens (1 bu. or 12 lbs.—10 to 13 pints.

Snap beans (1 bu. or 28 lbs.)—18 to 22 quarts.

Tomatoes (1 bu. or 50 lbs.)—14 to 18 quarts.

Peas (2 qts. in shell)—1 pint.

Cherries (1 bu. or 60 lbs.)—30 qts.

Berries (1½ qts., raw)—1 quart.

Home-canned Fruit Juices Will Add Variety to Diet

(Prepared by the Rural Press Section of the OWI News Bureau)

For variety—and to save food coupons next winter—home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are suggesting home-canned fruit juices. Those softer fruits which the homemaker must discard in whole fruit canning will give excellent juice provided they are free from bruises and decay and not overripe.

You may use rhubarb, berries, cherries, currants, plums, cranberries, or grapes, preferably locally grown since freshness is important. To preserve the fruity taste, juice for beverages should be extracted from the raw or slightly heated fruit. Apples and peaches do not give up their juices readily when raw or slightly heated and are not recommended. Citrus juices are hard to put up at home and take a good deal of sugar.

HOW TO DO IT

To can fruit juice for beverages wash fruit but do not soak it. Remove any pits and crush the fruit. Heat it gently to 170F. (below simmering) until soft. Strain it thru a cloth bag, and if you wish, add sugar. One-half to one cup of sugar per gallon of juice is sufficient, but sugar is not necessary for the preservation of juice. Heat the strained juice to 170F. and then pour into hot jars or bottles, leaving 1-8 inch head space. Completely seal at once crown cap bottles or jar closures with rubber "made on." Process in a boiling water bath for five minutes.

Here's a quick review of home food preservation "must":

1. Be sure jars or bottles have no nicks or cracks.
2. Be sure caps for jars or bottles will provide an airtight seal. Crown caps with shiny brown paper facing, sealed with a capping device, are recommended.
3. Boil bottles or jars, and jar caps without rubber, to sterilize them. Dip bottle caps and jar caps with rubber "made on" into boiling water quickly just before using.
4. Be sure fruit is not overripe. Remember, one spot of rot can spoil the whole batch.
5. Do not hold fruit too long before canning. Keep it cool and well ventilated until you begin preparation. Wash the fruit well but don't soak it.
6. To pack freshness and hold onto nutritive values, canning must be done quickly. Prepare fruit in small batches to reduce canning time.
7. Observe directions, times, and temperatures in canning procedure.
8. Fill jars quickly, seal tightly, cool in air.
9. Store in cool, dry place away from light. Temperatures above freezing but not over 60F. are important to the preservation of food.

Jarrett and Savage Attend State Meeting

Dean R. P. Jarrett and Professor F. E. Savage represented the college last week end at a meeting of Texas school administrators at Austin. The meeting was sponsored by the State Department of Education, and cooperating federal agencies.

In making an estimate of the meeting, Dean Jarrett stated that he was most impressed by the address of Dr. Edgar Fuller of the Harvard Graduate School, who declared that C. A. A. is here to stay. Among other things, Dr. Fuller said that by the end of 1943, there will be three million people employed in aviation services and that when this war is over, high school students in hundreds of places will be receiving not only ground school training, but flight instruction as well. Dr. Fuller emphasized that the whole of American life will be changed by the air age which is being ushered in at the present time.

Two graduates of W. T. appeared on the conference program. They were Irby Carruth, '27, superintendent of schools at Bonham, and H. A. Glass, '26, now a member of the State Department of Education.

Women Are Expert at Many Farm Jobs; 300,000 Needed

(Prepared by the Rural Press Section of the OWI News Bureau)

Any woman who can devote weekends, one or two days a week, a vacation period, or full-time to helping on a farm . . . anyone who can aid local canners in processing the harvested crops . . . anyone who is serious about working hard to help win the war on the home front . . . is urgently needed.

About 300,000 women are expected to do rush harvest and other short period farm work this year as a part of the U. S. Crop Corps. Another 60,000 women will be enrolled in the Women's Land Army, helping out on farms for a month or more.

3 MILLION WORKERS GONE

Since the start of the national defense program in 1940 nearly 3 million persons of working age have left agriculture. A critical shortage of farm workers threatens crop production when farmers have been asked to grow the biggest food supply in history. Farmers need every part-time or full-time worker they can get.

There are many farm jobs which city and town women can do and do well, with very little training. In the home vegetable garden, inexperienced workers can soon learn to prepare soil, plant seed, and do necessary weeding and hoeing. When vegetables are ripe, there is picking, packing, and sometimes grading to be done.

POULTRY FARM JOBS

On poultry farms there are many routine chores which are easily learned and performed — feeding and watering the birds, gathering, candling, crating, and grading eggs. Egg records must be kept, the incubator and brooder looked after, and chickens prepared for market —all these jobs can be done by women and girls.

In the orchard and vineyard women can drive the spray truck, help in pruning trees, pick and grade fruit, pack it in boxes or barrels, and truck it to market. In the fields women become expert at handling such machinery as harrows, disks, fertilizer spreaders, mowing machines, rakes, or hay loaders.

NEED HOUSEKEEPERS TOO

Women who are keeping house now can be of invaluable service in the farm home. Volunteers for work in farm homes can do much for the war program by releasing an experienced farm woman for work in the field. This is familiar work—taking care of children, cooking meals, cleaning the house, canning and drying surplus fruits and vegetables, marketing, doing necessary sewing, or keeping farm and home records.

Women have many assets as farm workers. They are accurate—a good trait for recording, weighing, grading, and candling eggs. They work with dexterity and speed which makes them useful for grading, cleaning, packing, and tying produce. And women have patience, the patience necessary in doing routine farm jobs such as weeding gardens, gathering eggs, milking.

Those women who enter farm work will find that scientific agriculture—plant and animal breeding, plant and animal disease work —is intriguing; there is a great deal of satisfaction in results; and, best of all, by doing farm work, they will be aiding in feeding the United Nations.

An old colored man was asked what breed of chickens he considered best. "All kinds has merits," he replied. "De w'ite ones is de easies' to find but de black ones is de easies' to hide after you gits 'em."

Pampa Air Field Invites Boys to July 4th Program

Young men of the Panhandle area will be afforded an opportunity to see an Army air field in action this Sunday, July 4th, when Pampa Army Air Field's personnel will present a special "Open House" program.

Designed primarily for youths of the surrounding communities who are approaching their 18th year—the age when they are eligible to start Aviation Cadet training—the "Open House" activity will give youths between the ages of 17 and 26 a chance to visit the Cadet area, the Link Trainer buildings, the flight line and see a military and aerial review put on by the Cadets now receiving their advanced training at this school. In addition, they will see the Cessna and Curtis training planes used at this base, as well as primary, basic and basic combat ships. Famous combat planes, such as the B-26 Marauder and the B-24 Consolidated Liberator, will also be on exhibition.

Young men who want to attend the "Open House" will be met at the Pampa Post Office building at 12:00 noon Sunday, July 4th, and transported to the field, 16 miles east of Pampa, in government trucks and jeeps. Those who are unable to be at the Post Office may drive directly to the field, and, if parents are accompanying them, they, too, will be admitted to the field to witness the day's events.

At 1 p. m., visitors will be permitted to roam the Cadet area, visit barracks, classrooms and the mess hall. Cadets in training will be present to talk with youths and to explain their various activities. Special demonstrations will be put on during the afternoon.

Patriotic Program Sunday Morning at Methodist Church

Next Sunday is the Fourth of July. Rev. C. C. Armstrong has announced that a patriotic program will be given at the morning service at 11:50 o'clock.

Patriotic songs will be featured in this service.

Communion service will follow the regular program.

Gazing patient at the sky;
Like some marble carven nun,
With folded hands when work is done,
Who mute upon her tomb doth pray,
Till resurrection day.—Kingsley.
